DR. R. V. PIERCE DIES TUESDAY

Apalachicola, Feb. 5.—Dr. R. V. Pierce, multi millionaire and founder of the World's Medical Dispensary of Buffalo, N. Y., died at his winter estate on St. Vincent's Island, eight miles from here, yesterday morning at 9 o'clock. Preparations are being made for the transportation of the remains to Buffalo. Dr. Pierce was also a mine owner in addition to his interest in the manufacture of Pierce's Medical Discovery. He owned a large estate on St. Vincent's island, a big game preserve being among the interesting features. Deer and other animals were imported from Europe and placed on the island. He spent all of his winters at home on the island.

Dr. Pierce frequently stopped in Tallahassee on the way to his estate on St. Vincent's Island, and was favorably known to many of our people.
